CONFERENCE HEREImmediate Steps to Remove Industrial Hazard UrgedCity and county officials today were united on a program to improve the county ditch as an emergency WPA flood project at a cost roughly estimated at $20,000.Following a special council meeting at city hall last night, City Engineer P. S. Barchhoff today contacted WPA offices in Lisbon and Canton and was given assurance that every effort would be made to obtain approval of the work as an emergency project.
Barchhoff and County Engineer Lloyd Kirk were to outline the project plans today.

Threat to Industry

Improvement of the ditch by widening and deepening would remove a constant threat to industrial operation here, accentuated during the last two weeks to an extent where factories have been and still are, in some cases, tremendously inconvenienced. Only a few days ago at the Mullins Corp., aid of city firemen and pumps was necessary to keep the water away from the boilers.The situation is caused by lack of drainage, with the lower section of the county ditch, toward the Lisbon rd., filled to such an extent it would be necessary for water and wastes to run up hill in order to get away from the factory district. As a result a swampy condition remains in the vicinity of the road.City council conferred with county officials at a special meeting last night at the city hall. In attendance were County Commissioners Conrad Berg and Austin I.
Getz, Prosecuting Attorney George
Lafferty and County Surveyor Lloyd Kirk.

Agree Condition Is Serious

The commissioners agreed that the condition was serious and should be remedied immediately and pledged their fullest cooperation in whatever program is adopted, but pointed out the county itself has no money that has not already been appropriated for specific purposes.The swamp end of the ditch is in the city limits; about 3,600 feet of the ditch is outside the corporation.The ditch originally was constructed by way of assessments against benefiting property owners, the contract having been let by
P. Farmer, county engineer, in 1890.Lafferty described various sections of the law which would be applicable to paying for the building or improvement of such a ditch.The laws are so established, he said, that those who benefit shall pay, through the process of assessment."Suppose we decided to improve est college president in the country.Many people living in Ohio still recall when the late President James A. Garfield was president of Hiram college.While Hiram college has never been regarded as one of the large educational institutions of the state, yet it early attained and has prepared to grant Bruno Richard Hauptmann another reprieve.The governor's secretary said, "the governor will not

Copyright, 1936, By The Associated PressTRENTON, N. J., April 3.—Bruno Richard Haupt-mann's counsel lashed out shortly before noon today in a last desperate effort to save him from the electric chair, after the Mercer county grand jury had given notice it would not again seek to interfere with the Lindbergh baby killer's execution.C. Lloyd Fisher, chief defense counsel, demanded that the Hunterdon county grand jury be convicted to consider charges that Paul H. Wendel—and not Bruno Hauptmann—kidnaped the famous baby.He directed his demand to Anthony M. Hauck, Jr., the Hunterdon prosecutor who has been most vigorous in the efforts to see that the Hauptmann death sentence be carried out. The execution is set for 8 o'clock tonight.May Call on Trenchard If Hauck refused to act, Fisher indicated he might call upon Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, the trial attorney, to order Hauck to convene the grand jury and to join him in an effort to stay the execution.The development brought swift reaction.Hauck said he would confer with Attorney General David T. Wilentz immediately to determine what to do.Col. Mark O. Kimberling, warden of the prison where final preparations have been made for the execution, came to the attorney general's office shortly afterward, and it was apparent that another of the climaxes of the famous case was drawing near.Fisher's demand upon the Hunterdon prosecutor to act was based on the opinion that the crime of which Wendel was accused—a crime for which the grand jury of Mercer county declined late last night to indict—was commissioned in Hunterdon county and therefore called for action there.Justice Trenchard, the trial judge, declined as recently as Tuesday to stay the execution, commenting that the Wendel "confession" was "incredible."Largest Proportion

ODDS ON ECKENER

Germany is in a position to claim three world titles. It leads the world in dirigible construction, would probably nose out Italy for the honor of holding the most farcical plebiscites and possibly beat the fascists in the matter of spreading propaganda.
All three phenomena have converged upon Dr. Hugo Eckener, veteran zeppelin commander, to the undeserved discomfiture of the doctor.

Although Hitler's overwhelming victory was assured when last Sunday's plebiscite was proposed, he used every known means of propaganda to get out voters. Dr. Eckener was commanded, as an election stunt, to fly the new airship Von Hindenburg over the country, dropping pamphlets and broadcasting Nazi gospel. At first he refused. Later, he reluctantly consented, upon threat of being forced to resign.
As a consequence of his "tautulence" he is in disgrace and may not be given the privilege of flying the new air liner to the United States in May.

Dr. Eckener's 30 years of devotion to zeppelin construction and his popularity abroad give him an advantage in the tiff. The Von Hindenburg won't be sent to the United States without the doctor in the pilot room. It wouldn't be good advertising, and Hitler is desperately in need of good advertising right now.

RIGHT MAN, WRONG TIME

The Cleveland man who telephoned the Japanese ambassador in Washington to inquire what all the Japanese-Russian pother was about had the right idea and, probably, the right man. He wanted to understand this latest threat to world peace. But he called at the wrong time.

Ambassador Saito assured his interrogator there was no likelihood of war developing, but the guns still rumble. "Bore" incidents aggravate an Asiatic sore spot and threaten to scratch it into more than a good sized blemish.

Outer Mongolia and Manchukuo are pawns in the Russo-Japanese chess game which started, like most chess games, a long time ago. In 1911 Czar Nicholas helped Outer Mongolia to split off from weakened China. When the revolution came, red troops rushed in to prevent China from retaking the territory.

Both players are determined to preserve their stakes in northern China. Japan is more frank about its territorial aspirations, but Russia's "boring from within" is no less resolute. The gravity of the present situation arises from the fact that both powers have advanced their interests to the point where they must meet and clash—at the Outer Mongolia and Manchukuo border. Close by, in Siberia, is the spot where the vital trans-Siberian railroad almost touches the southern border of Siberia. If Japan should push into Outer Mongolia, it would be able to throw more than stones at this highly important railroad. Naturally, Russia views with alarm.

As far as can be judged from reports, Manchukuoans seems to have instigated most of the "incidents."
Russia, since it is not yet prepared to endanger itself by war, may well be sincere in its insistence that Mongolians do nothing to provoke assault. It is not unlikely, though, that sooner or later the two powers may feel impelled to fight to hold their stakes in China. Ambassador Saito will know more about that later, no doubt.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, April 3—Thoughts while strolling:
Karl Bickel has the right idea for a Florida home.
His house in Sarasota rambles over many acres.
But has only one guest room, the size of a Pullman berth. Two hops and a dive off the springboard name—Margaret Mackprang Mackay.

Look alikes: William Frawley and James Farley.
Hoosick Pulls' pride and joy: Harriet Hocter. That lady's dress catching fire from a cigarette in the theater lobby should be a warning. But it won't.
Put a wig of curly white hair on Henry Busse and you have Charles Whittier.

What became of Ruth Etting? Tough life note:
One of New York's rich men catches cold washing his hair in the north during the winter. So he goes to Florida once a month for a shampoo. When a Sealyham stops short it means carry him. Or go on alone. Frank Fay's "wo-wo" everywhere.

Memory: The tasty aroma of liquid shoe polish.
Eddie Dowling, actor, and Eddie Dowling, stage manager, are both moon-faced. And Eddie Duchin, ahem, now spells it Eddy. Never one without the other couple: The Robert Rubins. Wouldn't take much make-up to make a Mephistopheles out of Count Salm.

Add hair cut needs: Earl Carroll, Lewis Calhern and Konrad Bercovici. John Golden has a sweep-the-sidewalk stride. Vincent Astor is nearing the 200 pound division. Rural writer whose name is a natural: Rose Wilder Lane. If it wouldn't touch off lumbago, I'd like a swing on the garden gate with Jane Withers.

The Arthur Murray dance school has been one of the odd depression defiers. Its space has enlarged steadily during a period when it might be assumed dancing would be the last thing people would think about. Murray himself was recently profiled by The New Yorker and seems to have established himself as an authority on the modern dance. Amazing how many people go there to improve their dancing, to reduce or merely to relax. Staid people you somehow would never expect gesturing toward frivolity.

Murray is a super-publicist. He bombards the columnists several times a day with what he thinks is "hot news" and gets out a sizeable magazine featuring his Terpsichorean exploits.

Sentimentalists are worrying about the condition of Maxfield Parrish's Old King Cole. Those who used to glance up to the old rascal at the Knickerbocker Bar and were inspired to just one more are fretting about its shabbiness. It now hangs in a room bearing its name at the St. Regis and is in sad need of re-conditioning. A fellow reporter standing before the painting one day observed to Frank O'Malley: "You know that picture looks much better after a few drinks." Said O'Malley: "What doesn't?"

Shortly after the fashionable Knickerbocker closed,
Jim Regan, the owner who came up from a barkeep, called in several newspaper writers of which I was one to see the display of canes left dangling on the Knickerbocker bar. A large sized room was racked with them, all with crooks, forgotten with the last round over a period of 15 years. He wanted suggestions as to what should be done with them and Charlie Somerville, after discovering three were his, suggested all be scattered among orthopedic homes.
This was done, I believe. As I recall, there were more than 4,000. Incidentally, Regan was the only hotel man in the city ever to bar newspapermen from his bar. In a pique he banned them six weeks. And that's how the Forty-second Street Country Club, which met in front of a hydrant, was born.

At the Hugh Murphys pent house one night I sat up until long after my bedtime talking to Scotti, the operatic tenor, whose death some weeks ago struck sadness. I knew little about music and he was little interested in writing but we hit upon a topic of mutual interest—food. He was a gourmet and described dishes of exquisite blending and cuisine in many parts of the world. But on our way home I invigled him to a Child's in Lincoln Square and squared him away before a stack of butter cakes and "two in the dark." And he did not do badly with them either.

Thingumabobs: Pulling down the Ponciani in Palm Beach has almost vanquished the bicycle roller chairs. Victor Hugo was made ill by taste of cherries. Herb Roth swore off formal evening dress nine years ago and has kept the oath. . .
Robert Edson used to haze playwrights by having someone sandpaper a rough board in the next room when a play was being read. . . Charles Francis Coe is an expert landing sailfish. . . No matter how much Katharine Hepburn disguises herself in public, her raspy voice is a give away.

There is a silly going around about a well-dined gentleman starting to drowse over the coffee as a discussion of Irvin Cobb and his home town in Kentucky started. After awhile, coming to and wanting to appear interested, the drowser inquired: "What is the average size of Paducah?"

THE STARS SAY

For Saturday, April 4

According to the major planetary configurations, this may prove to be a perplexing and difficult day.
The energies and facilities are inclined to turn inward to the serious, mystical or unusual, rather than to cope with problems and conditions with practical and constructive attack. A loss or a bereavement or depressed physical condition may be accountable for this. Be alert to treachery and turn inward for solace and guidance.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of more or less inertia with little inclination to attack problems of daily living with energy and practical manipulation. This may be due to a turning inward to the spiritual, mystical or unusual avocations, or probably to a depressed physical condition. There may be the passing of a friend or other difficulty involving those related by domestic, social or affectional ties.

A child born on this day may be studious, profound and with deep interest in curious, mystical or spiritual subjects, in which it will find much comfort.

HEALTH

Prenatal Care

It always gives one a pang of sympathy to see a crippled or deformed child. Many of these deformities might have been prevented.
In many an instance, if the necessary medical care had been given to the mother before the birth of the child, the accidents would have been avoided.

Dr. Copeland

In other cases, surgery during early childhood would have corrected the trouble.

No doubt you will be astonished to learn that in the United States
each year more than 150,000 children are born
dead or die shortly after birth. Just about one-half of these deaths can be traced to some injury received at birth. Many who escape visible physical deformity may suffer the effects of brain injuries.

The figures are amazing and difficult to understand in light of modern scientific achievement. It is true that motherhood has been made safer as a result of improved methods of surgery, better anesthesia, and the discovery of many valuable appliances. But the number of childbirth injuries is far too great.

Much of this trouble can be traced to the neglect of appropriate medical care during the so-called "prenatal" period. It is imperative that every expectant mother secure early medical advice. It is vitally important that she have care during the months of her pregnancy. This is advised so what is learned before the birth of the baby will help the doctor to provide for a normal delivery.

Sensible Course

Bear in mind that almost every factor of possible trouble can be removed during the early months of pregnancy. If this sensible course is followed the mother will be saved from a difficult labor and the infant protected against childbirth injury.
The mother should take every measure to improve her general health before confinement. She should visit her doctor as soon as possible and continue under constant medical attention. After the first physical examination she should return to the doctor periodically.
He will make the necessary tests, including the blood pressure and urinalysis.

Too many look upon childbirth as a "natural" thing. This is the fact, of course, but sometimes we can help Mother Nature and it is not wise to take unnecessary chances.
Complications are too likely to follow if the simple precautions are overlooked.

The doctor has many facilities at his command to discover unsuspected dangers. He has the resources of the laboratory, the x-ray and other modern scientific equipment to safeguard mother and child. Take advantage of them.

Dr. Copeland is glad to answer inquiries from readers who send addressed, stamped envelopes with their questions. Address all letters to Dr. Copeland in care of this newspaper at its main office in this city.

the ditch by assessment," he continued. "The most important question is, where shall we get the money?"

Sees No Legal Way
The county, he explained, has no money not appropriated. Levies or bond issues, which would require a general vote, would not make funds available until possibly next year, even if all preliminary legislation were approved. The county, Lafferty said, can't spend money unless it is in fund or in process of collection.

"I can see no legal way to immediately finance the improvement," Lafferty said. "It's a deplorable condition, but it's a fact."

Council President Charles Cornwall, as the meeting closed, directed that the water committee take over the problem, and attempt to work out, along with engineers, an emergency WPA project.

Theater Attractions

Contrary to expectations, the five quintuplets are not "the babies" of the picture, "The Country Doctor," which ends its run at the theater tomorrow night.

Of course, the five little wards of Dr. Edward VIII attract the most attention and provide the human interest for the film, but the fine performance of Jean Hersholt really put the picture across.

Dr. Allan Roy Dafeo, the physician who brought the "quints" into the world, had been usually followed unawares by a cameraman during his activities in the five babies, he could not have performed his role in a more life-like manner than does Hersholt, gray-haired ace character actor.

Surprisingly similar to Dr. Dafeo's appearance, Hersholt truly fits the picture. Experience gives him the professional touch of a doctor since it is the second time in ten years that he has appeared in this type of role.

About the babies, well, those in contact with them say that none makes the best actress. It's the one who claps and crows, who shows her eyes widest, who sticks her teeth best and insists on sticking her little foot up in the air.

She's bent on investigating anything that touches her hands attracts her eye. Annette seems to be the most friendly of the five, says willing to greet a stranger. Marie is the most reserved and pious, while Marie is the most precious because of the exceptional amount of trouble and worry she has caused Dr. Dafeo and the nurses.

The precautions which have guarded the health of the "Quints" are not relaxed for one moment during the production of the film. Members of the unit working at throats were sprayed and they had donned surgeon's gowns and gauze masks.

Hersholt and Dorothy Peterson, who portrays the nurse, were the only exceptions to the rule. But Hersholt's blue business suit, worn in the picture, was thoroughly sterilized for each scene as were Miss Peterson's uniforms.

DEATH TOLL IN STORMS NOW 39

Many Others Injured As Tornado Winds Sweep Across Five States

GREENSBORO, N. C., April 3.—The south counted 39 storm dead and feared the toll would rise today as volunteers searched in daylight the wreckage left by tornado winds that swept across five states. The destructive power of whirling wind centered at Cordele, Ga., and at Greensboro, causing damage estimated at $1,250,000 in the southwest Georgia city and more than $1,000,000 material loss here.

Others Critically Hurt
Early today there were 11 known dead here and more than 100 injured. Some of the latter were expected to die.

At Cordele, a town of 7,000, the dead numbered 18 and nearly 500 persons were more or less seriously hurt. About one-sixth of the town was damaged or destroyed.

State and local authorities of Georgia and North Carolina rushed medical supplies to fight disease from water pollution and to prevent infection of open wounds caused by the storms.

Storms of similar nature but of less intensity struck later at Tignall, Sasser, Leesburg, Vidalia, Bald Springs, Washington and Lincoln, Ga.; Gordon, Ala.; Hampton, S. C.; and at Concord, N. C.

Winds Lift, Hit Again
Early last night winds of terrific force descended upon southwest Greensboro, ripping out a swath several blocks wide. It lifted but struck again a few miles away at Bessemer, without, however, causing any fatalities.

Fire added to the horror here, burning to death a woman and child trapped in their home in the storm area.

In addition to the known dead in the two communities most seriously damaged, there were three dead at Tignall, Ga., one each at Sasser, Leesburg, Bald Spring and Ala., Appalachicola, Fla., and Hampton, S. C.

Convicts were pressed into service to help clear debris at Cordele as rehabilitation work began. There were more than 1,000 persons homeless.

Big Spring Training Squad But Coach Francis Schmidt Says "Look At Schedule"

Fred Springer of Lisbon and Bill Booth of East Liverpool Among Prospective Candidates for Berths On Ohio State's 1936 Grid Team

COLUMBUS, April 3—Coach Francis A. Schmidt of Ohio State university's football team looked over a squad of more than four score moleskin wearers today—one of the biggest spring training squads in years—and said: "Yes, and we're going to need every one of them if we are to get through that schedule next fall."

Schmidt said he would have to boast players of almost equal ability "three or four deep" in every position for 1936. "Just look at that schedule," he said. "First comes New York university—a team that was a Rose Bowl candidate right up to the last game."

"Then comes Pittsburgh—and you can bet that Pitt will be up there bidding for the national championship."

"Then Indiana! With Bo McMillin coaching out there the Hoosiers are always tough."

Forget That
"And then Northwestern—well, Northwestern was good enough to beat Notre Dame—while we—but forget that."

"And after Northwestern they keep getting tougher. I tell you that if things don't turn out right we have a chance to lose every game. I don't think we will, but we must have a lot of man power, and must have it early, if we are going to do any good."

"If we just lose one or two key men—even just a little 'E-flat' guy like Joe Williams—it's liable to throw us off."

Schmidt produced this list of names "we are relying on":

Left ends: Capt. Merle Wendt of Middletown, Fred Crow of Pomeroy, Joe Aleksiuk of Youngstown, Theodore Lundblad of Cleveland, Wendell Lohr of Massillon, Robert Kennedy of Columbus, John Dreier of Coldwater, Ed Janovic of Toledo.

Smith Back

Centers: Ralph Wolf of Youngstown, Emerson Wendt of Middletown, John Garner of Upper Sandusky, Jim Robinson of Columbus, Richard Wuelher of Columbus.

Right ends: Frank Cumiskey of Youngstown, Ed West of Springfield, Irvin Conley of Sandusky, Richard Boughner of Akron, Jack Lind of Columbus, Kenneth Klein-felder of Sandusky, Frank Mastako of New Philadelphia, Roy Baldwin of Bridge Hampton, L. I. Maurice Hyman of Xenia, Charles Pfersick of New Britain, Conn.

Here's "Jumping Joe"
Left halfbacks: "Jumping Joe" Williams of Barberton, Jim Miller of Shelby, William Booth of East Liverpool, Mike Kabealo of Youngstown, Robert Krick of Greenville, Quarterbacks: "Tippy" Dye of Pomeroy, Nick Wasylik of Astoria, I. J. James Hall of Greenfield, William Phillips of Columbus, William Bullock of Kent, Maynard Edwards of Johnstown, Tony Kinell of Newton Falls, Rodney Boyer of Whitehouse.

Fullbacks: Jim McDonald of

Springfield, Frank Antenucci of Niles, John Rabb of Akron, Tom Monahan of Lorain, Howard Wedebrook of Portsmouth, Fred Springer of Lisbon.

Right halfbacks: John Bettridge of Toledo, Vic Dorris of Bellaire, Richard Nardi of Cleveland, Ernest Cartwright of Tiffin, and John Knecht of Chillicothe.

Seems like hardly enough!

Wants Garback
Bush is hopeful of getting Garback from Cleveland as his first string catcher because Pinky Hargrave and two rookies leave that position considerably weakened. If outfielder Johnny Gill is returned from the Cubs, the Millers would be "all set," granting they get the pitching and catching help.

Jake "Lefty" Baker, the Cocos, Fla., boy who won 28 and lost 8 in a fast semi-pro league down there last year, my prove to be the other pitcher.

But take Hargrave and Big Buzz Arlett out of the lineup, and the Millers haven't much batting punch. With Arlett in the outfield will be Gaffke and Harris, with a chance that Gus Koch rookie may stick with the club on his fly shagging ability.

Blondy Ryan, obtained from the Yankees, will play short, and teamed with Second Sacker Andy Cohen of last year's team, will give the club a good Keystone bag combination. Dutch Hollan again will be at third.

EARLY ANGLERS VISIT PINE LAKE
Good Catches Are Reported; Boats to Be Available Sunday

While cold weather continues to hover about the heads of fishermen, some of the more valiant anglers have already taken to their rods and reels to get an early start despite the waning threats of "Old Man Winter."

Pine lake, one of the favorite spots for Salem fishermen, has been open for several days and reports are that several fine bass, weighing four and one half to five pounds, have been caught.

The Ohio Service Co., owner of the body of water, sends word that all of the boats will be available for service Sunday. The lake store will also be open, it was reported.

Start Early To Be Good at Golf Game
BOSTON, April 3.—To be a good golfer start before you are ten years old. That is the advice given by Ernest Hermann, dean of Boston University's Sargent College of Physical Education.

He warned against the practice of golf to the exclusion of all other avocations or hobbies. "It cannot alone fill the needs of men and women, although it has great physiological and mental values," he says.

"IFS" SURROUND MILLERS' HOPES

Several Players Needed To Make Minneapolis Strong Club

(By Associated Press)
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 3.—A flock of "ifs" apparently will determine whether the Minneapolis Millers successfully defend their title in this year's American association race.

If the Millers can obtain a first string catcher; if a couple of pitchers can be found; if another outfielder bobs up; and if Joe Hauser, slugging first baseman, rounds into shape — then the 1935 champions may come through. Manager Domie Bush is optimistic over the team's chances.

There still is hope of getting Walter Tauscher, big right hander, back from Cleveland. Tauscher went up last year. Right now Minneapolis would open the season with Rosy Ryan, Ray Kolp, and Elvie Bean, all right handers, and Ray Prim and Archie McKain, portersiders. Prim was obtained from the Phillies. McKain was a Louisville uniform for part of last season.

Wants Garback
Bush is hopeful of getting Garback from Cleveland as his first string catcher because Pinky Hargrave and two rookies leave that position considerably weakened. If outfielder Johnny Gill is returned from the Cubs, the Millers would be "all set," granting they get the pitching and catching help.

Start Early To Be Good at Golf Game
BOSTON, April 3.—To be a good golfer start before you are ten years old. That is the advice given by Ernest Hermann, dean of Boston University's Sargent College of Physical Education.

He warned against the practice of golf to the exclusion of all other avocations or hobbies. "It cannot alone fill the needs of men and women, although it has great physiological and mental values," he says.

Wants Garback
Bush is hopeful of getting Garback from Cleveland as his first string catcher because Pinky Hargrave and two rookies leave that position considerably weakened. If outfielder Johnny Gill is returned from the Cubs, the Millers would be "all set," granting they get the pitching and catching help.

Jake "Lefty" Baker, the Cocos, Fla., boy who won 28 and lost 8 in a fast semi-pro league down there last year, my prove to be the other pitcher.

But take Hargrave and Big Buzz Arlett out of the lineup, and the Millers haven't much batting punch. With Arlett in the outfield will be Gaffke and Harris, with a chance that Gus Koch rookie may stick with the club on his fly shagging ability.

Blondy Ryan, obtained from the Yankees, will play short, and teamed with Second Sacker Andy Cohen of last year's team, will give the club a good Keystone bag combination. Dutch Hollan again will be at third.

EARLY ANGLERS VISIT PINE LAKE
Good Catches Are Reported; Boats to Be Available Sunday

While cold weather continues to hover about the heads of fishermen, some of the more valiant anglers have already taken to their rods and reels to get an early start despite the waning threats of "Old Man Winter."

Pine lake, one of the favorite spots for Salem fishermen, has been open for several days and reports are that several fine bass, weighing four and one half to five pounds, have been caught.

The Ohio Service Co., owner of the body of water, sends word that all of the boats will be available for service Sunday. The lake store will also be open, it was reported.

THE SALEM NEWS SPORTS

Training Camp Slants

(By Associated Press)
SEBRING—Tom Baker and Max Butcher seemed to have won places on the Brooklyn pitching staff. Baker has allowed six hits in 14 innings against major leaguers and Casey Stengel says: "I'll keep that boy even if I finish last."

Moore Goes Hitless
CLARKSDALE, Miss.—After hitting safely in 17 consecutive games Joe Moore, the Giants left fielder, went without a bingle as the Giants beat the Indians 6-5 yesterday. Cleveland now holds five victories to four for New York in the series.

Farmalee Performs Well
BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—Roy Farmalee's pitching had the boys talking today. He allowed only two hits in five innings yesterday when the Cardinals played the Crackers in Atlanta.

Five Double Plays
Weather Is Alibi
KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—The weather wasn't very promising, but the Athletics hoped they'd have a chance today to play another game with Knoxville and try to wipe out yesterday's mortifying 10-2 defeat by the minor league Smokies. They had 40-degree weather as an alibi.

PARIS, Tex.—Between shivers over a cold snap, the Pirates gloated today over five double plays against the White Sox at Tyler, Tex., yesterday, claiming a training season record in the absence of statistics to the contrary.

Phillies Meet Millers
DELAND, Fla.—The Phillies, defeated by Baltimore yesterday at Kissimmee, came here today to take on the Minneapolis Millers.

Girls' Tourney Is Called Off
Delay of Barberton Event Prevents Teams From Entering

Lack of sufficient entries to make a first round bracket has caused the Salem girls' basketball tournament to be cancelled, Joe Kelley, director, announced today.

Originally scheduled for this week end, the tourney failed to draw enough teams when Barberton postponed its girls' tourney from last week until this week.

Several of the teams that were intending to compete in the tournament here, were forced to cancel their entries because Barberton delayed its event.

Fight Results
New Haven, Conn.—John Anderson, 175, Sweden, knocked out Tiger Jack Renault, 170, New Haven, (1), Vancouver, B. C.—Gordon Wallace, 146, Vancouver, outpointed young Peter Jackson, 138½, Los Angeles, (10).

Believed To Be Ready For Most Streunous Come-Back Effort In Several Years

W. Lawson Little To Make First Professional Start; Rainstorms Delay Opening Day's Matches; Tourney To End Sunday

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 3—The pages of golfing history were turned backward six years today as Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., the retired world's champion, ruled favorite over a selected all-star field in the third annual $5,000 Augusta national invitation tournament.

Jones' backers believed he was ready today for his most serious come-back threat since he quit the tournament trail half a dozen years ago.

One bookmaker said he would drop close to $10,000 if Jones triumphed over the other 53 ranking professionals and amateurs. He was in the favorite's spot in the betting at 6 to 1.

Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., and Johnny Revolta of Chicago, the P. G. A. champion and leading 1935 money winner, were regarded highly in the betting odds, being bracketed at 8 to 1 behind Jones.

Making his first professional start, W. Lawson Little, Jr., of San Francisco, world's champion amateur for the last two years, was quoted at 9 to 1 along with Gene Sarazen of Brookfield Center, Conn., who won the 1935 tournament.

Delayed a day by rainstorms that flooded the course with more than four inches of water within 36 hours, the opening 18-holes were scheduled to get underway at noon. The revised schedule called for a second 18 holes Saturday and the 36-hole finals Sunday.

For a statewide amateur boxing tournament will be held during August, open to all amateurs throughout the Lone Star state, with the finals staged in the Cotton Bowl Stadium at the exposition. Classes will range from the paper weights to the heavies.

Some 500 amateur boxing clubs in the state are expected to have entries in the contest. About 200 competitors will be brought to Dallas to take part in the finals.

Case Is Studied By Liquor Board

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, April 3.—The state board of liquor control studied today its first case under a section of the Ohio liquor act outlawing the old-style brass bar rails.

E. M. Conrad of Lancaster, was charged with violation of the section, which states that "no beer or intoxicating liquor shall be sold over a bar for consumption thereat" and "no beer or intoxicating liquor shall be sold to a patron unless he is seated at a table."

Members of the board took the case under advisement. Revocation of license is the penalty for the offense.

Conrad's offense, they said, was the first brought before the board of violation of the "brass-rail" section of the liquor law.

Adopts Resolution

COLUMBUS, April 3.—The house voted 98 to 0, late yesterday for adoption of a resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to relieve bank stockholders of double liability in event of failure.

WHEN YOU
NEXT BUY Flour

Look beyond price when you order your next sack of Flour!

Cheap flour cheats! You can save a few cents a sack and lose many times the saving through a spoiled batch of baking—or baking that your family doesn't enjoy.

Occident Flour costs a little more because:

1. It is made from the most carefully selected wheat.
2. This wheat is washed and scoured before milling (which adds something to milling cost).
3. It is milled by a longer and more expensive process.

But you will agree, after trial, that you save the slight additional cost of Occident many times over through improved baking results.

YOU WILL NOTICE:

That you get a surprisingly large amount of baking from a given amount of flour.

That your baking stays fresh for an exceptionally long time (so you won't need to bake so often).

And that the flavor of all your baking is noticeably improved. You'll get a full wheaten flavor that wins popularity for your bread plate.

You can try Occident Flour without obligation of any kind. Order a sack from your grocer and use as much of the sack as you wish. If, after further trial, you do not agree that the slight additional cost of Occident means real economy for your baking, your grocer will refund the full purchase price without question.

with... Visible COLD Visible ECONOMY and
Visible PROTECTION

Today we recommend that every owner of an automatic refrigerator learn about the new 1936 Kelvinator. It has three outstanding, vital, fundamental things that the buyer of a refrigerator has always wanted.

Visible Cold, which means safe temperatures in the food compartment. And these temperatures are proved by a Built-In Thermometer so there can be no doubt or guesswork about how cold it is.

Next, Visible Economy. The 1936 Kelvinator uses from one-third to one-half as much current as many refrigerators now in use, as shown in advance by a signed Certificate of Low Cost of Operation.

Third, Visible Protection. This consists of a 5-year Protection Plan, written and signed by the oldest company in the electric refrigeration industry.

But that's not all. The new Kelvinator is the only refrigerator that gives you flexible rubber grids in all ice trays. It offers a wealth of conveniences such as automatic defrosting switch, sliding shelves, interior electric light, and many others that make the preparation of meals a real pleasure.

We want you to see the 1936 Kelvinator whether you now have an electric refrigerator or not, and let us tell you how you can have one in your home for as little as 15c a day. Come in tomorrow.

VISIBLE ECONOMY
Today, for the first time in the history of the industry, Kelvinator provides you with a Certificate of Low Cost of Operation. The 1936 Kelvinator uses one-half or one-third as much current as many refrigerators now in use. This saving alone may justify replacing your old refrigerator.

VISIBLE PROTECTION
You may know today, beyond a shadow of doubt, that the refrigerator you buy will give you long years of service. Because the 1936 Kelvinator is backed by a 5-year Protection Plan, written and signed by the oldest company in the electric refrigeration industry.

"DAUGHTERS OF VENUS"

by ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

CHAPTER XXI

"Don't forget, O'Hara, it was my ideas that built the whole thing," she said throatily. "It isn't likely that this young woman has better ones."

There was a sardasm in the old woman's retort that needed answering. Juliet, by a reckless statement, had turned the tide and was swept forward again.

"My ideas would revolutionize your whole business!" she plumed on, stimulated to a high pitch of invention. "I've already told McSpadden about my plan to market cosmetics in small packets through the chain stores."

"A splendid plan, too," said McSpadden loyally. "It means big sales with small profits that will pile up enormously. O'Hara agrees with me that these heavy agents in the cosmetics are ten years behind the times. But that's only a starter. You've totally neglected the market for perfumes under an established trade name. This is a vending-machine age—why can't we put out perfumes in small vials, enough for one application, in five-cent slot machines all over the country? The country is overrun with broken-down Russian nobility."

"Dozens of 'em," agreed O'Hara. "We can pick up one of these titled persons, name a line of cosmetics after him or her, and stamp a genuine coat-of-arms on the bottles and packages. Intelligently done there is a fortune in that one idea alone. Our bottles and packages look too much like old-fashioned patent medicines. We ought to get the best bottle designer in the world to give us things that are works of art in themselves—something that will appeal to the eye and the imagination, and make the customers believe they are getting exquisite preparations direct from Paradise. Oh, there are hundreds of marvelous ideas in existence and we can spring ahead and lead the race. If we stop stewing around in our own stupidity!"

Juliet's voice had mounted with excitement, her eyes had flashed and sparkled, until the three men watching her and listening were convinced she was the cleverest, most fascinating woman on earth. Thrill after thrill ran through her—never in her life had her brain seemed so clear and powerful. She had convinced the three men completely but, more important, she had convinced herself.

It was all true, it could be done! From the bed came the discordant croak of the Madame.

"That all sounds very pretty, my dear," she said "and it is, perhaps, worth thinking over. But what we are mostly interested in is arranging that loan of fifty thousand dollars. How soon can it be done?"

It was as though June suddenly had changed to wet February.

Juliet got up to leave. Inside her breast something had chilled, but she kept her chin up.

"Oh, I can arrange it by tomorrow or the next day," she said negligently. "If I decide to."

O'Hara followed Juliet out into the hall.

"Look here," he said persuasively, "don't run out on us now. Sure, I know—the Madame got under your skin, and I don't blame you. But she's an old woman and she isn't herself right now. She'll come around swell."

"Do you really think she'll live?" asked Juliet, with a shade of sympathy, for there was a self-sufficiency in Madame Hubert that checked any excessive compassion.

"It begins to look that way," said O'Hara. "Did you ever see such vitality? I'm beginning to believe she's indestructible. Von Guerdon kept looking at her like he couldn't believe his eyes."

"She doesn't think much of me, does she?" mused Juliet aloud. "It has changed my feeling—I can't help it. Her kindness that I was so grateful for seems to have been all on the surface."

"Don't hold a grudge against her."

"Oh, I wouldn't. She is an old lady and she's terribly ill, but all the same it hurt."

"Just skip it," O'Hara advised expansively, his blue eyes glowing. "We've got to stick together and put this thing over big. We'd all feel feeble the rest of our lives if we let it flop now. And I want to say this personally—your ideas are swell and I'm for them one hundred per cent. And that fifty thousand—it's sheer manna from heaven! I'm going back and tell the Madame you're sticking. You are, aren't you?"

"Of course I'm sticking," she said quickly, and hurried away from him.

coming in the heels of defeat. Humiliation had been relaxed and appeased. She stretched out her slim legs in the car, admired the rich silkiness of her stockings, the smartness of her small shoes.

"Pity you can't believe me," she murmured contentedly, almost against Von Guerdon's shoulder. There was a clean mannish scent of tobacco about him. "Why don't you?"

"You were a little too excited, a trifle too spiteful. Besides you wouldn't be working at the Institute if you commanded fifty thousand."

"I didn't say I had it personally," she reminded him. "I said I could get it."

"Where?"

"Must I tell you everything? Sorry, but that is private information. I might have a rich friend—a backer you know."

"Rubbish! You were just bluffing and you know it. Why don't you be frank and admit it?"

Juliet pretended to yawn. "Do you like symphonies?" she asked, lazily.

"We're not talking about symphonies."

"I have always heard the Germans were a music-loving people," she remarked irrelevantly. "I'd like to be listening right now to some marvelous orchestra climbing up to one of those tremendous crescendos where all the instruments run wild and shatter the atmosphere in a marvelous climax. You know—one of those things that makes you feel like a giant."

"You're probably referring to Brahms' Number One," returned Von Guerdon casually. "I should think you'd like something humble on a single violin string—like a conscience-stricken mouse creeping down the cellar stairs."

Juliet made a face at him. "You're doing your best to spoil my day, aren't you?" she demanded. "And I have so few pleasures!"

Oh, well, Mr. McSpadden still likes me anyway."

Von Guerdon understood this bantering and forgave it, because he believed him in love. Ordinarily he was a man of high but icy ideals; science had made him cold and precise. Ordinarily he considered the slightest falsehood as a crime, and he looked upon a joke with the same disapproval he would give a tetanus germ.

Juliet sensed all this in him and decided she'd like him better if he lightened his mental attitude a bit. No one had ever taught him to play. But it was too great a task for her to undertake teaching in one afternoon, so she abandoned him in the Institute and went into her palatial office to mull over her own predicament.

It had been easy to invent the fifty thousand dollars; the difficulty was to produce that sum. A sarcastic inner voice began to tell her she had made a ghastly fool of herself. In another instant it would have informed her she was nothing but a cheap braggart, but she slammed the mental door in the face of this intruder.

Looking at the situation in a big way, she told herself, fifty thousand was not much money. Actually it was an infinitesimal sum when compared with millions. Proprietors of successful hamburger stands probably had fifty thousand dollars. Thousands of people raise sums like that for business deals every day and think nothing of it. The tonic effect of these thoughts was marvelous. Straightaway she decided that it was possible to find the money somewhere.

GAINS FOR MOST LINES REVEALED

First Quarter of 1936 Is Favorable, Cleveland
Bank Reports

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, April 3. — "The Federal Reserve bank of Cleveland said today 'most lines for which information is available indicate that despite the slump in the first two months from the high rate at the close of last year, gains were experienced in the first quarter from the same period of 1935.'"

"Floods and storms caused a sharp curtailment in many lines in March, the bank's monthly business review said, but the chief effect was to defer buying and shipments to a later date."

Department store dollar sales were 22.5 per cent larger in February in the fourth district than in February, 1935, said the review. Conditions in other fields mentioned in the bulletin included:

Construction — "Awards in the fourth district in February were 138 per cent above last year and additional gains were reported in the first half of March."

Output Greater — "At 27 factories in the district shoe production was about 13 per cent greater in February than in the same month a year ago and output exceeded any similar month since 1928."

Employment — "Lower in February in Toledo, Cleveland, Elyria and Akron, but slight gains were evident in Cincinnati and Pittsburgh."

Increases from a year ago were reported generally except at Toledo and Akron."

Bituminous coal — "At mines of this district 9.7 per cent greater in February than in February, 1935."

Smaller industrial plants — "Most of them reported that for the year to date a gain from 1935 had been experienced."

The review said "sales of clay products also improved and those of paper and boxboard were ahead of last year." Clothing companies continued to operate at "capacity levels," and makers of auto parts reported an increase in March following the drop in February."

Dr. Eckener 'Taboo' With Nazi Officials

BERLIN, April 3. — Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, has become "taboo" to the Nazis because of his conduct during the reichstag election campaign.

His refusal to come out with a special election appeal caused the propaganda ministry to issue secret orders to the press to drop Eckener's name hereafter out of any publicity concerning the Graf or the giant new Zeppelin Hindenburg.

Nazi sources contended Eckener placed the Hindenburg and Graf Zeppelins into election propaganda service during the four days preceding the balloting only under pressure and with great misgiving.

Commission Holds Order to Get Tax

COLUMBUS, April 3. — The state tax commission is holding in abeyance an order to collect the sales tax on meals served to pay patients and employees in state institutions.

Calton S. Dargusch, vice chairman, said commission investigators were checking to determine just what effect the order would have on the institutions' operation.

Dargusch was unable to estimate the additional revenue that such application of the tax would yield.
